Why your customers love your brand and why not?

What is NPS?

The NPS is a concrete guide for action. The score makes companies aware of a problem and they can then conduct further analysis to learn how to rectify the issue.

By understanding what NPS management is, you will be better equipped to respond to criticism and become better.

Our research and methodology are conducted by a trained team and gives the opportunity to:

- Find out the geographical location of the unhappy customer;
- Analyze the services or products purchased by the customer;
- Determine the cause of dissatisfaction;
- Your task is to correct the shortcomings of the service or products of your company.

Advantages and values of measuring NPS with Scheduling Worldwide a large number of staff are necessary as hundreds of consumers must be interviewed.

Instead of questionnaires, our staff use real communication methods during the survey: they ask the right questions and in a polite manner to figure out the cause of dissatisfaction and determine the roots of the problem.

Receive a categorized feedback categories include a lack of manners shown by staff, the price or quality of the product/service and the cleanliness and organization of the establishment. The efficient classification of issues enables our customers to find and eliminate any shortcomings as quickly as possible.

You will know the exact actions that are needed to be taken research will not only show you any weak spots of your business – you will also receive a detailed advice plan aimed to reduce customer dissatisfaction. This plan will be drawn up immediately after the NPS poll has ended. This overall strategy will have been refined to fit customer specification and uses US developed software accessible on mobile devices.
